Quarantunes

A student music competition to inspire hope for the future

Create music with your friends which expresses your hopes for the world you want to live in, the world you will make.

The world is turning upside down. As students, you face many uncertainties about your university courses and futures.

Now is the time to make music together.

Here is a chance for the students of the Asia-Pacific region to inspire each other and our communities by making music. Help fellow students see beyond current difficulties, come together in mutual support, and strengthen the determination and hope for the future.
